August 2016

Hello:

Budget. Just the thought of the word evokes a sense of dread in most small business managers' minds. Large corporations have entire teams of accountants that work on this critical element of financial planning. You, on the other hand, most likely have to do it alone.

Why is this chore so difficult? Several reasons. The biggest stumbling block is probably the sense of uncertainty. How do you know what your income and expenses will be for the coming year?
